Principal Investigator / supervisor: Prof Sir Andrew Pollard

Project website: https://www.ovg.ox.ac.uk/
The Role

This is an exciting opportunity for a research fellow to take part in the wide range of ongoing research activity primarily based at CCVTM within the Oxford Vaccine Group (OVG). The OVG is involved in infection related research and has strong links to Oxford University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust. The post provides experience of clinical research in a multi-disciplinary academic environment, including leading on the development of study protocols needed in the preparation and submission of ethics, regulatory and grant applications and having responsibility for the day to day clinical governance of allocated clinical trials. The applicant will contribute to a 24-hour on-call service for adult study participants which includes out of hours clinical visits and may include laboratory processing of participant samples.

The successful applicant will expand on recent research that has successfully developed safe, ambulant outpatient challenge models to study the pathophysiology, host-pathogen response, novel diagnostics and effects of vaccines on outcomes following human challenge with typhoid and paratyphoid. The next stage in this work is to evaluate the protective efficacy of further novel typhoid and paratyphoid vaccines using the model and other vaccine candidates and to explore elements of the host-pathogen response in more detail.

Candidates interested in pursuing further research beyond the currently advertised post will be given the opportunity to seek independent research funding (such as a Clinical Research Training Fellowship) and to develop laboratory, clinical or a translational research proposal.

Responsibilities

- Plan, direct and undertake clinical delivery of the research work
- Provide technical advice and training for research staff relevant to the implementation of the research, in accordance with the protocol, ethics approval, SOPs and international guidelines
- Lead with regards clinical governance in the monitoring and reporting of the research at study sites and to trial specific data safety monitoring boards (for example reporting of serious adverse events)
- Collaborate in the preparation of clinical study reports for national and international stakeholders and funders
- Collaborate with members of the clinical, laboratory and statistical teams in the preparation of academic manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals
- Support the international research team in ensuring Good Clinical Practice (GCP) in all aspects of study implementation
- Provide medical oversight of trial participants including those enrolled in controlled human infection model studies
Selection criteria

Essential

- Medical Degree, or evidence of near completion of a medical degree
- Full GMC registration
- Experience within clinical medicine
- Good communication and interpersonal skills
- Availability to cover clinical visits on an on-call rota basis

Desirable

- An interest in further research, particularly in areas of infectious or tropical diseases, medical microbiology/virology, immunology, gastroenterology or acute internal medicine
- Experience of clinical research practice, understanding of Good Clinical Practice
- Information Technology skills
- Management experience

Pre-employment screening

Standard checks

If you are offered the post, the offer will be subject to standard pre-employment checks. You will be asked to provide: proof of your right-to-work in the UK; proof of your identity; and (if we haven’t done so already) we will contact the referees you have nominated. You will also be asked to complete a health declaration so that you can tell us about any health conditions or disabilities for which you may need us to make appropriate adjustments.

Please read the candidate notes on the University’s pre-employment screening procedures at: https://www.jobs.ox.ac.uk/pre-employment-checks

Hazard-specific / Safety-critical duties

This job includes hazards or safety-critical activities. If you are offered the post, you will be asked to complete a health questionnaire which will be assessed by our Occupational Health Service, and the offer of employment will be subject a successful outcome of this assessment.

The hazards or safety-critical duties involved are as follows:

- Working with infectious pathogens (hazard group 2/3) - Hazard Group 3 pathogens
- Working with blood, human products and human tissues
- Work in clinical areas with direct contact with patients (NOT administrative roles)
Additional security pre-employment checks

This job includes duties that will require additional security pre-employment checks:

- A satisfactory basic Disclosure and Barring Service check due to working with sensitive data
- University security screening (e.g. identity checks)

About the University of Oxford

Welcome to the University of Oxford. We aim to lead the world in research and education for the benefit of society both in the UK and globally. Oxford’s researchers engage with academic, commercial and cultural partners across the world to stimulate high-quality research and enable innovation through a broad range of social, policy and economic impacts.

We believe our strengths lie both in empowering individuals and teams to address fundamental questions of global significance, while providing all our staff with a welcoming and inclusive workplace that enables everyone to develop and do their best work. Recognising that diversity is our strength, vital for innovation and creativity, we aspire to build a truly diverse community which values and respects every individual’s unique contribution.

While we have long traditions of scholarship, we are also forward-looking, creative and cutting-edge. Oxford is one of Europe’s most entrepreneurial universities and we rank first in the UK for university spin-outs, and in recent years we have spun out 15-20 new companies every year. We are also recognised as leaders in support for social enterprise.

Join us and you will find a unique, democratic and international community, a great range of staff benefits and access to a vibrant array of cultural activities in the beautiful city of Oxford.

Oxford Vaccine Group

The Oxford Vaccine Group (OVG) is led by Andrew J Pollard, Professor of Paediatric Infection and Immunity. Staff are based within a purpose-built centre on the Churchill Hospital site and form part of the Centre for Clinical Vaccinology and Tropical Medicine (CCVTM). The aim of OVG is to co-ordinate expertise in the study of microbial diseases and the immune response to microbes, in order to facilitate research on the development and implementation of vaccines. This may include new, improved or combined vaccines for the adult and paediatric population.

More information about OVG may be found at the website: http://www.ovg.ox.ac.uk
Department of Paediatrics

The Department of Paediatrics is a world leader in child health research and hosts internationally renowned research programmes in drug development, gastroenterology, haematology, HIV, immunology, neuroimaging, neuromuscular diseases and vaccinology. Our work spans from early proof-of-concept fundamental science, all the way up to its application in clinical settings.

We continue to shape the landscape of medical science through positively impacting the lives of millions of children from our global research programmes, academic resources, and commitment to success. Our broad research base positions the department in a pivotal role and subsequently a world leader in child health. With research facilitates in the UK and abroad, we work on a global scale, building a paediatric network in the medical science community.

In 2021, we successfully administered a grant value of £130,895,28 obtained through 168 projects. Our strong relationship with funding bodies have also been a contributor to the successes and milestones in children’s health research. With strong support from the Wellcome Trust, NIH, Cancer Research UK, UKRI, MDUK, Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, Academy of Medical Sciences and the NIHR, we have employed 360+ staff, researchers, and students. These figures continue to grow as we expand our activities to overcome the multitude of challenges within children’s research health.
