Working together to create better health systems

Partner with us to elevate your agenda and address the most pressing issues in global health and beyond
Driving impact in global health through partnerships

At BMJ, our partnership offerings combine the rigour and clinical excellence of a world-renowned publisher with the ingenuity of an industry-leading global healthcare knowledge provider.

Our highly skilled and connected partnership team support corporations, foundations, multilateral organisations, non-governmental organisations and governments in creating impact across critical global themes.

These themes extend beyond healthcare to sustainability, poverty reduction, gender and health inequalities, and the changing shape of academic research.

- Bespoke published supplements and collections
- Convened high-level roundtable and policy dialogue discussions
- Accredited learning modules
- Global and localised interactive webinars, workshops, and virtual or in-person events
- Compelling podcast series, video summaries and explanatory infographics
- Curated media and digital marketing campaign production and dissemination
- Specialised translation services
- Public engagement summaries and patient leaflets
- Concise policy recommendations
- News release drafting and dissemination to generate media coverage worldwide

“BMJ has very good people on the ground. They made it happen, and it worked.”

Dr Luis Gabriel Cuervo, Senior Advisor for a leading international organisation specialising in health, on why he chose to have BMJ publish a themed collection.

Curate a BMJ collection to drive measurable changes in policy and practice. Email team.bmjx@bmj.com
From amplifying cutting-edge research to addressing challenges that effect some of the world's most vulnerable people, we collaborate with many international organisations to deliver results. We do this by initiating open dialogues that inform policies and shape the frameworks for many leading organisations, such as:

- Shape the future of healthcare
- Bring multisectoral leaders and thought leaders together
- Promote bi-directional knowledge sharing
- Build more robust partnerships

Sponsor a themed webinar, roundtable or special event to lead on a global stage. Email: team.bmjx@bmj.com

See our past work, meet the team, and find out more about what we do online.