INFLUENCE

Jim Shannon, Shadow DUP Spokesperson (Health) mentioned The BMJ in a Westminster Hall debate on Ultra-processed Food 21 June 2023: "As has been noted, the UK is at the top for ultra-processed foods in Europe. When I say that, I include packaged baked goods, snacks, fizzy drinks, sugary cereals, ready meals containing food additives, dehydrated vegetable soups and reconstituted meat and fish products. They often contain high levels of sugar, fat and/or salt, but lack vitamins and the fibre that I, as a diabetic, need. Those were all noted in the BMJ report on ultra-processed foods in 2019."

The World Health Organization has outlined 40 research priorities for tackling global antibiotic resistance. It cites BMJ Open research published in 2022.
