CORRECTIONS

Myeloma Workshop

In the contribution by Professor A. Videback on "Unusual Cases of Myelomatosis" (8 May, p. 326) the last sentence in the penultimate paragraph should have read "In a second patient there was a monoclonal gamma-A component, type kappa, in the serum starting at a level of 2.4 g/100 ml; this had a specificity of ASH (antistreptococcus hyaluronidase) with a titre of 5½ million units."

Post-hypoglycaemic Encephalopathy

In the letter by Dr. S. Krauss (5 June, p. 591) we regret that there was a printer's error in the third line of the final paragraph. The sentence should have read "—for example, using the flicker fusion technique and autonomic responses recorded on a polygraph—".
