Paediatric Surgery

The paediatric surgical associations of 16 west European countries have formed the European Union of Paediatric Surgical Associations. A resolution drawn up by members at a meeting in Rotterdam defines paediatric surgery, spells out the need for special centres, the kind of training programme required for specialization, and the age of patients considered to be in the category of paediatric surgery. The two British representatives on the union's council are Mr. James Lister of Sheffield and Professor A. Wilkinson of London.

Psychiatric Services in Scotland

A working party set up in June 1972 by the executive committee of the Scottish Regional Division of the Royal College of Psychiatrists to "consider and make recommendations on the future provision of psychiatric services in Scotland" has now made its report. In general the working party recommends a comprehensive service for psychiatry with provisions for patients in hospital and through community services, both statutory and voluntary. Its members hope that in the main psychiatric patients will be cared for in general hospitals, although they acknowledge the well recognized view that the inpatient needs of such patients are radically different from medical and surgical patients. The need to extend care through the day hospital system is emphasized. Child and adolescent psychiatry are seen as part of a comprehensive child health service with the corollary that as no single-handed consultants could deal with the workload in this field further training posts be created and full-time appointments be made to university departments. Recommendations on geriatric and forensic services are included as are public education, research, and professional training.

The working party was composed of 13 psychiatrists, from general and specific areas of the specialty, and the chairman was Dr. A. C. Tait. The report is at present under consideration by the Scottish division of the Royal College of Psychiatrists.

Seat Belts

Interested organizations have been invited by the Minister for Transport Industries, Mr. John Peyton, to comment on ways to increase use of seat belts. Publicity, improved design, insurance premium concessions, and car immobilization devices released only by fastening seat belts are all suggested inducements to improve degree of use. Those interested should write to the Department of the Environment (RSG1), Caxton House, Tothill Street, London SW1, phone 01-834 8540 ext. 205, and their comments must be received before 1 November.

Homosexuality

A new Family Doctor booklet on this subject by Dr. F. E. Kenyon has just been published. In 30 pages answers are essayed to such questions as "are homosexuals born or made" and "is there any treatment?" and a general effort made to dispel some of the prejudice and ignorance surrounding the subject. Homosexuality by Dr. F. E. Kenyon, can be obtained from Family Doctor House, 47/51 Chalton Street, London NW1 1HT, price 17p, or at chemists 13p.

Corrections

Australia Antigen in V.D. Clinic Patients

We regret that in a letter on this subject (30 June, p. 779) the name of the author, Mr. T. H. Bloomfield, was misspelt.

Association Notices: Group Committee Elections

In the notice of elections to vacancies on the B.M.A.'s Group Committees (Supplement, 7 July, p. 4) the period of office for Consulting Pathologists and Physical Medicine was incorrectly given in the table as 1971-5. It should have been 1973-7.

The Problem Oriented Medical Record

We regret that in the letter from Dr. E. C. Coles (30 June, p. 774), the 11th and 12th lines in the second paragraph were transposed owing to a technical error. The passage concerned should have read: "Professor Weed's ideas can undoubtedly be applied with great benefit to existing 'pencil and paper' methods of recording medical data; and should a successful system of computer-based problem oriented records not be achieved. . . ."
