

Dear BMJ editors,

Thank you for allowing us to revise our manuscript a second time. All four authors have collaborated on this second revision of our BMJ Analysis paper on religion and health. Please see the detailed responses to your queries and comments in our response letter and in the track changes version of the document. We believe that this paper is improved will better represent our views to the BMJ audience, given your careful attention to our text. Thank you for your truly careful attention.

Sincerely,

Ellen Idler, on behalf of Mohamed Jalloh, James Cochrane, and John Blevins
