Dear Dr. Grundy

BMJ-2019-049603 entitled "Muddy waters: Variability in the reporting of conflicts of interest in the biomedical literature"

Thank you for sending us your article, which we read with interest. You have done a lot of work and clearly thought about the subject of conflicts of interest. I discussed your manuscript with one of the senior editors from the Analysis section of the journal and we would like to encourage you to rewrite your manuscript for that section. Please see our guidance for authors for Analysis articles

<https://www.bmj.com/about-bmj/resources-authors/article-types> While we can make no promises about your article at this stage we are interested in the topic of conflicts, the proposals that you put forward and your analysis of the problems. I was not able to take your manuscript forwards for the Research Methods and Reporting section as this section is educational in its purpose and seeks to instruct rather than debate.

Please note that resubmitting your manuscript does not guarantee eventual acceptance, and that your resubmission may be sent again for review.

Once you have revised your manuscript, go to <https://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/bmj> and login to your Author Center. Click on "Manuscripts with Decisions," and then click on "Create a Resubmission" located next to the manuscript number. Then, follow the steps for resubmitting your manuscript.

You may also click the below link to start the resubmission process (or continue the process if you have already started your revision) for your manuscript. If you use the below link you will not be required to login to ScholarOne Manuscripts.
